Experience

Emma Bowen Foundation Fellow

02/2020- Present

WBAL-TV NBC 11 | Baltimore, MD

A competitive journalism fellowship that provides a four-year paid internship in which I intern with WBAL-TV in Baltimore. At the news station I have rotated through almost all departments in the newsroom, like the Assignment Desk, Digital, Sales, Creative Services, Programming and Public Affairs, Producers and Anchors and Reporters. Throughout these experiences, I have acquired and improved upon many skills including video editing, writing for broadcast, digital and print, producing, reporting, anchoring, social media and web analytics, promotions, advertising and sales. Additionally, the fellowship entails ongoing professional development and support, with year-round conferences, faculty guidance, and access to a network of media leaders and EBF alumnus; as well as a myriad of other resources in the industry.

Dow Jones News Fund Digital Media Program

05/2021- 05/2021

WBAL-TV NBC 11 | Baltimore, MD

A 9-day intensive training in which I gained skills in analyzing web traffic and social media, learning the latest visual and audio storytelling techniques-preparing me for the rapidly evolving media ecosystem. We also researched, reported and produced stories about the recovery of American local communities and businesses, developing a website, to showcase our work with videos, audio, photos, infographics and original reporting.

Internship At WBAL-TV Baltimore

01/2019 – 06/2019

WBAL-TV NBC 11 | Baltimore, MD

Mentored and worked closely with WBAL's anchors Jason Newton and Mindy Basara as well as meteorologist Ava Marie. Learned the workings of a news station, how to write news stories for broadcast tv, record voiceovers and construct news packages. I was also introduced to the workings of meteorology.

Medill-Northwestern Journalism Institute

07/2019 – 08/2019

Northwestern University | Evanston, Illinois

A selective five-week journalism program. Learned to report in various styles using different types of media including, print, photography, broadcast and digital. Gained vast experience in field reporting, photography, interviewing and many multimedia platforms, with various resources in the field.
